State's products get global market

ODOP scheme designed to elevate local products to global stage

The ODOP scheme is designed to elevate local products to a global stage. By forming a robust network of local exporters, Madhya Pradesh is transitioning from a local economy to a global marketplace. Several products have received Geographical Indication (GI) tags, boosting their international appeal. The recognition of handicrafts, agricultural, and food products is enhancing the livelihoods of artisans and manufacturers across the state. The scheme features special products that reflect the unique geographical and cultural characteristics of each district, including green vegetables, coarse grains, crafts, handloom, and handicrafts. To date, 19 specific products have been awarded GI tags, such as Chanderi Sarees, Bagh Print textiles, Nagpuri Oranges, and Kadaknath Chicken, with seven of these included in the ODOP initiative.

Madhya Pradesh is establishing itself in major global markets, with products like Burhanpur's high-quality bananas and Raisen's aromatic Basmati rice gaining recognition. The ODOP initiative has evolved into a movement driven by community participation, with artisans, women's groups, and local entrepreneurs playing crucial roles. The state government is actively supporting this initiative through training, branding, packaging improvements, digitization, and logistics to enhance export capabilities.

MLA stages paddy plantation protest against waterlogging

Dabra (Gwalior): Residents of Dabra in Gwalior district are reeling from severe waterlogging as incessant rains turn roads and colonies into virtual lakes. In a striking act of protest, local MLA Suresh Raje, accompanied by party workers, took to the waterlogged streets near the bus stand to plant paddy, symbolizing the extent of the flooding crisis.

Dabra drowns in Deluge

The demonstrators that drain cleaning would commence swiftly and promised measures to clear water from inundated roads. Following these assurances, the protest was called off, though Congress workers continued to chant slogans condemning the Municipal Administration and the SDM.

Negligence blamed for city's plight

The severe waterlogging is widely attributed to the municipality's negligence, as drains and storm sewers were reportedly not cleaned before the monsoon season. This oversight has led to widespread urban flooding. Last year, areas like Chinour Road and Nandu Ke Dera in Dabra experienced flood-like conditions, yet the administration seemingly failed to learn from the past.
