

These 4 Birth Dates Hold the Highest IQs, According to Experts

Intelligence shows up in various shapes and forms. While someone may be a creative artist, bringing meaning to life through soulful expression, another may excel at classic academic pursuits. Whether you carry book-smarts, emotional intelligence, spiritual gifts, or another facet of wisdom, know everyone has their own special skills or talents of the mind. However, according to expert numerologists, astrologers, and spiritual practitioners, four birth dates stand out as the most likely to be blessed with higher IQs.

Which Birth Dates Are Most Likely to Have High IQs?

Check for your birth date.
Disregard birth months.

3rd

Those born on the 3rd of any month possess the desire for life-long learning. Through firsthand experience, philosophical debates, or higher education, this birth date seeks to be informed. Governed by Jupiter, the planet of big-picture thinking and expansive luck, these people are meant to synthesize complex ideas. Often, as scholars, teachers, explorers, or the like, this birth date is intended to be a melting pot of cultures, ideas, and influences of evolving thought.

17th

Methodical, organized, and even-paced, those born on the 17th often embody exceptional wits. Their rulership over Saturn, the karmic planet of maturity, makes them long-term strategists. With critical thinking, scientific analysis, engineering, or an overall mindful approach to problem-solving, these people demonstrate exceptional intelligence. All-in-all, this birth date is destined to be the architect of their reality, creating tangible, foundational, lasting results.

23rd

Those born on the 23rd of any month are known for their dynamic intellect. Mercury, the cosmic messenger of intelligence itself, rules over this birth date. Absorbing information and external stimulus quickly, you're a swift learner. Clever, perceptive, and on the go, you have an overall sharp wit. Your social and communication skills win you friends of all walks of life, while your mindful, detail-oriented approach helps you pick up facts, figures, and skills that most miss.

31st

Thinking outside of the box, those born on the 31st are often eccentric yet innovative thinkers.

Ruled by Uranus, a planet disruptive to the status quo, you're meant to venture into uncharted territory. You take little interest in learning how to do things or perform them as they always have. Rather, you seek unconventional solutions with future-thinking approaches relevant to evolving needs. Genius ideas strike you, that may seem outlandish to some at first, but can lead to excellent manifestations.

The 3 Luckiest Angel Numbers For Protection and Good Energy

Which angel numbers protect you from negative energy? What are the most powerful angel numbers for protection? According to expert numerologists, the rumors are true—there are beginner-friendly ways and a how-to guide for using angel numbers for protection and manifestation. There are three angel numbers best suited for spiritual, divine guardianship. When they cross your path naturally, you're naturally being signaled that all is being taken care of. However, you can also intentionally use these divine numerological codes to create energetic shields or cleanse during a time when you want to call upon higher intervention.

What Are Protective Angel Numbers?

Protective angel numbers may appear like simple numbers. However, numerologists share that these divine numerological codes transcend mere digits. Charged with higher vibrations, you can call upon protective angel numbers to welcome divine intervention from your spirit guides, ancestors, higher self, and other unseen protectors. Protective angel numbers often take on a repetitive nature, such as 444. However, even digits that appear less cohesive, such as 47 or 127, can carry spiritual meanings. However, the three most powerful angel numbers for spiritual protection are: 444, 777, or 999. Read on to discover their more profound significance and how to work with their grounding offerings.

How To Use Angel Numbers To Manifest or Call In Protection

Our spirit team is always nearby. Whether we choose to pray, inquire, give offerings, or the like, the method that matters most for calling for divine protection is choosing the magic or ritual that resonates most with you. Can you utilize angel numbers for spiritual protection, then? Of course! Working with angel numbers imbued with protective energy helps you attract protection or protect your manifestations. It gives your unseen protectors the go-ahead or permission to divinely interfere on your part to keep you safe from harm's way or hurtful people, places, or circumstances.

How To Work With Protective Angel Numbers

To get started, choose the protective angel number that best suits your intentions below. From there, you can try any of these manifestation techniques to call in greater support.

Symbolic Decor or Accessories - Wearing angel number jewelry, adorning your body with tattoos of your chosen protective numerological code, placing an image of it on your altar, or making your lock screen a photo of an angel number of divine protection allows you to welcome its properties into your life.

Meditation or Prayer - Close your eyes and enter a meditative state. Once there, focus your mind's eye on visualizing the angel number you wish, for a few moments to a few minutes. You may choose to then say your needs, hopes, prayers, or specific petitions for protection.

Writing - Putting pen to paper and accessing the power of writing is a simple and understated manifestation method. Write down your angel number, along with the protection you're calling upon. Watch miracles unfold.

The 3 Best Angel Numbers for Protection

Expert numerologists share the best angel numbers for spiritual protection against negativity, for safety, for warning you about danger, for protecting your energy, and for shielding you from bad people and bad luck. Learn how to ask the universe for protection through angel numbers above.

444 - Grounded Protection

Angel number 444 calls for grounded protection. This numerological code calls upon the frequencies that shield one from the negative impacts of over-materialism or those who have lost sight of their values. When you come across 444 on your path, your angels are reminding you that you can call upon their guidance at any moment for divine insight. Or, if you wish to manifest more protection, especially in your career, finances, or practical, tangible, material-world-based problems, work with this angel number.

777 - Divine Protection

777 speaks to the ethereal quality of protection. When you wish to tap into higher realms for intuitive alignment, spiritual clarity, and downloads of insight, this angel number is the right one to work with. Angel number 777 follows you when you're being called to look within for answers and reconnect with your higher self or spirit team. When you wish to tap into emotional protection against relationship confusion or harm, are losing sight of your instincts, and need shielding from a lack of self-trust, use this angel number to manifest blessings.

999 - Humanitarian Protection

This angel number symbolizes both closing cycles, giving birth to new ones, and remaining attuned to the collective. When you're wishing to send protection to someone else, a group of people, or yourself and others, manifest with 999. This numerological code will extend your auric shield farther and wider. This is arguably the strongest angel number for overall humanitarian-based protection.

Weekly Horoscope: Nov. 9th to 15th Nov. 2025

We're back in retrograde season. Mercury goes retrograde on the 9th in Sagittarius. This year's third Mercury retrograde finds us thinking out of the box and fumbling to find the right words. Things get heated on the 12th when Mercury collides with Mars. Watch out for someone going off about something they don't even have the facts about. Elsewhere in the sky, on the 11th, Jupiter stations retrograde in Cancer.

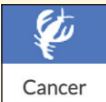

This week brings a change up to your travel or study plans. Though the passion is there, you're struggling to come up with the cash to make your itinerary work. At the same time, after months of huge growth on the homefront, you're starting to feel a bit claustrophobic in your own space. It's a good week to research fresh experiences that won't break the bank.

You may come to regret some deals you made this week, Taurus. A friend who promised to pay you back isn't coming through with the cash. Your partner needs a lot of support. But who's supporting you? Your network has grown a lot through your many acts of kindness and it's time to call in some favors of your own.

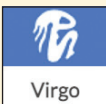

A close relationship is put to the test as Mercury stations retrograde in your partnership sector on the 9th. If you've been deep in a honeymoon period, this week might bring your first clash over something simple like what to eat for dinner or something major like your values. The next few weeks will be about seeing if you can accept your differences and stay on the same page.

What you're doing this week isn't glamorous, but it's very necessary. As Mercury stations retrograde in your daily routine sector, you're being forced to evaluate which habits are working for you and which are working against you. Though a lot of this year has felt like two steps forward followed by three steps back, take a moment to recognize how much you've really grown.

When an ex-fling slides into your DMs this week, you might be tempted to rekindle the connection. There's part of you that's feeling restless and bored with your personal life, but dipping into the archives isn't always as fun as it seems. Before diving headfirst into the drama, take a step back and consider the ways you can cultivate more pleasure in your day to day.

This week you're breaking ground on a home renovation or digging up your personal archives. So much of your growth in the past year has been in the public sphere but now you're feeling the call to turn inward. This shift might feel uncomfortable, especially if you're afraid of losing momentum in your career. Trust that the inner work is necessary for further external breakthroughs.

You have a ton on your plate this week, and with Mercury stationing retrograde in your daily routines sector on the 9th, you're going to be juggling a lot of miscommunications and reschedules. Frustrations with close friends, coworkers and even your barista are inevitable this week, but try to take every delay and redirect as an opportunity rather than a hassle. Notice the synchronicities.

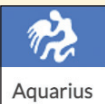

You're deep in the process of cultivating self-love and confidence, and this process requires some lifestyle upgrades! That being said, just because you're "worth it" doesn't mean you have to put yourself into credit card debt. With Mercury stationing retrograde in your money sector, it's time to pause on the purchases and shop around for some deals.

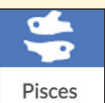

You're feeling feisty this week and, more than usual, are speaking your mind. This year has tested your ability to negotiate and collaborate, and right now, you're feeling like it's your turn to take the lead and get what you want. Be careful not to over-promise though because with Mercury stationing retrograde in your sign on the 9th, you might have to later go back on your word.

If there's one thing that's true this week, it's that you have absolutely zero desire to do any work. Whether you're logged off on vacation or daydreaming through your company's slow season, you're in need of a change in routine. If you're somehow still plowing through work, give yourself permission to rest.

You're determined to make something happen this week, but you're also realizing that your plan is only as good as the team you have to support you. With Mercury stationing retrograde in your friends and community sector, you're understanding how easy it is for someone else to mess up your big opportunity. Though you may be let down by someone you thought you could trust, you may also be lifted up by someone unexpected.

This week tests your ability to lead under pressure. With Mercury stationing retrograde in your public image sector on the 9th, you might find yourself in a power struggle with your boss or feeling blocked about next steps. If you're finding yourself tongue tied, remember to pause and deliver what you have to say at your own pace. You don't have to hurry because of someone else's timeline.