- A fusion of tradition and simplicity
- Grand simplicity: CM's family hosts collective nuptials

Ujjain: Ujjain, the city of Mahakal, is gearing up for an extraordinary event today as Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav's youngest son, Dr. Abhimanyu Yadav, marries Dr. Ishita Yadav from Khargone in a grand collective wedding ceremony. This choice, bypassing an exclusive, lavish affair, is being hailed as a unique example of simplicity and social responsibility. The ceremony will see Abhimanyu and Ishita take their vows alongside 21 other couples in the same mandap at the Sanwarakhedi venue, with all arrangements made free of charge by the CM's family.

Bullock cart entrance and family festivities

The wedding celebrations began with traditional flair. Abhimanyu and his bride-to-be, Dr. Ishita, made a charming, rustic entrance to their engagement ceremony on a bullock cart, delighting onlookers with their commitment to tradition. The family spirit soared on Saturday night at the Sangeet ceremony held at Hotel Atharva, where CM Dr. Mohan Yadav himself participated. The evening was marked by family members dancing to traditional tunes, prioritizing warm, familial joy over ostentatious display.

VIP convergence jams Ujjain hotels

The event has turned Ujjain into a high-security zone, with guests expected to include the Governor of Madhya Pradesh, Chief Ministers from over 11 states, Union Ministers, and the entire MP state cabinet. Due to the high-profile attendance, all major hotels in the city are fully booked, requiring special traffic management and enhanced security. Despite his personal engagement, the CM has maintained his official duties, managing state affairs through video conferences and meetings from Ujjain.

A model of social harmony

The marriage further deepens the bond between the two families, as CM Yadav's daughter is already married into Dr. Ishita's family. The decision to hold the wedding in a mass ceremony, with no unnecessary extravagance or display, is being showcased as an exemplary instance of blending tradition, culture, and community participation. The event is expected to be a benchmark for an ideal wedding focused on customs and social equality.

Basaman Mama Sanctuary to become natural farming hub: Deputy CM Shukla

Bhopal: Deputy Chief Minister Rajendra Shukla has announced plans to transform the area surrounding the Basaman Mama Gau Abhyaranya (Cow Sanctuary) into a major center for natural farming in the Vindhya region. Stressing that cow rearing is essential for natural farming and strengthening the agricultural sector, he highlighted the vital role of the sanctuary. The facility, which shelters over 8,000 destitute cattle, will utilize the cows' manure and urine to help surrounding fields transition away from chemical fertilizers. A major Natural Farming Convention will be held at the sanctuary on December 25th, coinciding with the birth anniversary of former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee. The conference will bring together agricultural experts and farmers practicing natural farming to accelerate regional development.

During his inspection, Shukla urged officials to ensure the timely completion of the dining hall and secure uninterrupted electricity supply. He emphasized boosting natural and organic farming, improving cattle breeds, and empowering women through self-help groups to establish the sanctuary as an "ideal Goshala."

He added that the freedom given to 'Ghar Wapsi' programs while targeting other groups shows a clear double standard. Madani concluded with a defiant message: "Jab jab zulm hoga, tab tab Jihad hoga" (When there is oppression, there will be Jihad).

Sambit Patra calls Madani statement "provocative, divisive, and nation-splitting"

BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra sharply criticized Maulana Madani's recent statement, labelling it "provocative, divisive, and nation-splitting." Patra accused Madani of politically misusing the term 'Jihad' to disrupt the country's atmosphere, stressing that the history of terror attacks committed in its name cannot be ignored.

Patra called Madani's comments on the Supreme Court "extremely unfortunate," suggesting they attempt to weaken constitutional institutions. He formally demanded that the Supreme Court take suo motu cognizance of the statement and initiate appropriate action.

Minister Sarang slams Madani's remarks

Madhya Pradesh Minister Vishwas Sarang strongly condemned Maulana Madani's recent statements, calling them "divisive" and promoting "anti-national thinking." Sarang asserted that respecting India's Constitution, flag, and national symbols is the duty of every citizen.

He termed the comments against the Supreme Court and constitutional bodies as highly deplorable. Sarang lashed out at the mindset of those who "eat Hindustan's salt but sing someone else's tune," stating such an attitude will no longer be tolerated.

He affirmed the government's zero-tolerance policy against remarks challenging national unity and constitutional decorum.

"As the ruling party, we are prepared to answer them and the entire state. We are fully capable of running the Assembly and the government," he said.

He expressed concern over the Centre's lack of support to Karnataka on sugarcane pricing, irrigation projects, and other pending commitments. He said the Chief Minister had already submitted representations to the Prime Minister and called on Karnataka's MPs to act collectively in the interest of the state. Some union Ministers, he noted, had shown readiness to join a state delegation.

Karnataka CM Siddaramaiah poised for historic full term: Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is on track to become the state's first CM in 40 years, and only the second after Devaraj Urs, to complete a full five-year term by April. This milestone fuels speculation about a potential deal with Deputy CM D.K. Shivakumar. Internal sources suggest the two leaders had agreed to split the CM term following their election victory. If Siddaramaiah steps down in April, allowing Shivakumar to take charge, it could resolve the lingering dispute, which was calmed by the Congress high command.

Police brutality at Collectorate stirs outrage

- Complainants 'Abducted' mid-protest
- Singrauli Police accused of 'Kidnapping' families seeking justice

Singrauli: Singrauli's Kotwali Police faced severe criticism this Saturday morning after officers were filmed brutally apprehending citizens, including women and infants, who had gathered at the Collectorate to lodge a complaint. Witnesses described the scene as an "abduction," alleging that police arrived, forcibly dragged individuals, and loaded them into a vehicle in a manner resembling a gang-style roundup.

The high-stakes drama unfolded inside the Collectorate premises as women and children pleaded and screamed to save their male relatives. Despite the victim's efforts to resist, police, with only one female officer present, aggressively pushed and manhandled the crowd before forcefully bundling a man into the police van and driving away.

Ministerial Link Suspected in Road Dispute Crackdown

The incident, captured on video and now viral, has raised serious questions about police conduct. The complainants from Kasar village were reportedly protesting a road dispute involving the local Sarpanch. Sources suggest that a complaint filed by one resident, Santram Sahu, went unheard. When Sahu allegedly contacted high-ranking officials and a State Minister to complain, resulting in a heated verbal exchange, the Minister reportedly lost his temper.

It is suspected the police action followed the Minister's subsequent directions, leading to the complainants being forcefully detained and an FIR being filed against the very people who sought protection. The Collector remained in his cabin during the 20-minute incident, only sending the SDM out to mediate. Media attempts to film the brutality were reportedly met with rudeness by police personnel.

MP set to present lean supplementary budget in Winter Session

- Fiscal discipline shrinks budget size to under Rs 5,000 crore

By Kanhaiya Lodhi

Bhopal: The Madhya Pradesh Finance Department has finalized preparations for the Second Supplementary Budget for the 2025-26 fiscal year, which is slated to be tabled during the upcoming Winter Session of the Assembly on December 2. In a marked shift toward fiscal prudence, the budget's size is expected to remain small, likely under Rs 5,000 crore.

The reduced size is a direct result of strict warnings issued by the Finance Department which demanded that all departments justify their funding needs with clear evidence of utility and prior expenditure status. This strict vetting ensured that only requests for highly essential works were included, reversing the trend of large supplementary allocations. The Cabinet will approve the final draft on December 2 before it is presented to the House, with discussions scheduled for December 4.

Focus on energy, infrastructure, and social welfare: The proposed supplementary budget prioritizes key infrastructure and social sectors. The Energy Department is expected to receive the largest share, approximately Rs 1,200 crore.

Major allocations are also planned for construction and development over Rs 1,000 crore combined for the Narmada Valley and Water Resources Departments, and more than Rs 700 crore for the Public Works Department. The Women and Child Development Department is also set to receive a significant boost of around Rs 800 crore. This move towards a leaner budget follows the first supplementary budget of the current fiscal year, which was restricted to a mere Rs 2,356.79 crore. The state government attributes this tighter control to the new Zero-Based Budgeting process, aimed at ensuring that allocated funds are precisely directed toward achieving intended outcomes.

Joint Chief Electoral Officer Ram Pratap Singh Jadon confirmed the achievement during a virtual review meeting with Deputy District Election Officers across the state. Jadon noted that a total of 44 districts have now completed over 90% of the revision work.

To ensure accuracy, the officer urged citizens requiring corrections due to change of residence or details to contact their Booth Level Officer (BLO) and submit Form 8. New voters are encouraged to fill out Form 6.

While praising the progress, Jadon directed officials in major metropolitan areas like Gwalior, Indore, and Bhopal to accelerate their efforts to ensure the entire state meets the cent-percent target within the stipulated timeframe. He also instructed swift processing of claims and compassionate appointments for the families of BLOs who passed away during the exercise.
