New year, new beginnings! COLORS' actors reveal their 2026 resolutions

Ayesha Singh from COLORS' 'MannatHarkhushiPaane Ki' shares, "As we bid farewell to 2025, there is so much to be grateful for. The audience has been incredibly generous with their love for MannatHarkhushiPaane Ki, and that means a lot to me. I'm excited for viewers to experience the shocks and twists that the post-leap track has in store. While Mannat onscreen has stepped into her mom era, I'm personally in my self-care era more than ever. I think we all need to invest time in ourselves and be intentional about physical and mental wellness. Here's hoping 2026 is about embracing the little joys in life while staying focused on the bigger picture. I wish everyone a very Happy New Year!"

Deepika Singh, portraying Mangal in COLORS' 'Mangal Lakshmi', shares, "This year feels like a true turning point in my journey, marked by moments I will cherish forever. The immense love for Mangal Lakshmi has been very encouraging, and receiving the DadasahebPhalke Award for this role is a milestone I will always carry with pride. It was also a year that really tested and strengthened me - I had dengue, yet I resumed shooting after just two days, working eight-hour shifts for a week. My producer was extremely kind in ensuring those limited hours. I requested S.P. Raza sir not to alter the Mangal storyline, assured him I would show up, and I did. That same resilience carried me through our Georgia schedule as well, where I worked continuously for four days in sub-zero temperatures. Shooting in Georgia added a whole new dimension to portraying Mangal for the audience. Sharing screen space with Farah Khan ma'am was another defining moment; working with her brought fresh insight and inspiration to my craft. As I move into the New Year, I do so with a sense of fulfilment and confidence, knowing that viewers and fans stand beside me. I'm eager to see where Mangal Lakshmi goes next and how audiences continue to witness her journey. Enjoy the present moment, take care of one another, and cherish time with family and friends. Forgive, forget, and move forward - that's my mantra. Here's wishing everyone a year of happiness, growth, and moments worth celebrating. Happy New Year!"

Dakota Johnson spotted on cozy dinner date with Role Model, fuels dating rumors after splitting with Chris Martin

Dakota Johnson and musician Role Model, whose real name is Tucker Pillsbury, have set social media abuzz after being spotted together recently during an outing. The two were photographed enjoying a candlelit dinner with friends, instantly sparking dating rumors. Images from the evening show the actress and the singer seated close to one another, appearing relaxed and comfortable in each other's company.

According to several reports, the atmosphere during the dinner was notably intimate. A source revealed to TMZ that Dakota and Tucker were "cuddled up and grew very close" as the evening progressed, further fueling speculation about a budding romance. While neither of them has commented publicly on the nature of their relationship, their chemistry during the outing has not gone unnoticed by fans.

The sighting comes months after Dakota reportedly ended her long-term, on-again, off-again relationship with Coldplay lead vocalist Chris Martin. The pair began dating in 2017, were together for eight years, and were even engaged at one point before parting ways this year. In November, it was reported that Dakota had started dating again, signaling a new chapter in her personal life. Meanwhile, Tucker Pillsbury has also been single, having split from influencer Emma Chamberlain in 2023 after three years together. Their breakup reportedly inspired his album Kansas Anymore.

Outside of her personal life, Dakota Johnson has remained busy professionally. In 2025, she appeared in two films, Materialists and Splitsville. She is now gearing up for one of her most anticipated projects yet, which is the film adaptation of Colleen Hoover's best-selling novel Verity, where she will star alongside Josh Hartnett and Anne Hathaway.

Harshvardhan Sonam Bajwa turn Mumbai into a romantic canvas for Ek Deewane Ki Deewaniyat

Following the digital premiere of Ek Deewane Ki Deewaniyat on ZEE5 on 26th December, the platform celebrated the film with a visually immersive activation across two iconic Mumbai locations-Bandra Bandstand and Carter Road. The experience kicked off at Bandra Bandstand in the presence of lead actors Harshvardhan Rane and Sonam Bajwa, who unveiled a specially curated Augmented Reality (AR) wall inspired by the film. By scanning a QR code, media and visitors were able to access exclusive content and information from the newly released title.

Taking the celebration beyond the installation, the actors joined members of the media on a ZEE5-branded bus ride that travelled from Bandra Bandstand to Carter Road. The bus created a moving visual spectacle across the city, extending the film's presence beyond static spaces and adding a dynamic element to the post-premiere celebrations. The experience culminated at

from the film, set the mood for a memorable photo opportunity. Harshvardhan Rane and Sonam Bajwa posed against the romantic backdrop, capturing the spirit of Ek Deewane Ki Deewaniyat and bringing the film's world alive for audiences beyond the screen.

Harshvardhan Rane said, "Ek Deewane Ki Deewaniyat is a story driven by intense emotion, and seeing that passion translate into a live, interactive experience like this was truly special. The way audiences engaged with the AR installation and connected with the film's world made it incredibly rewarding. It's exciting that a story this layered can now reach audiences everywhere, through ZEE5, and be experienced beyond the confines of a theatre."

Catch the passion unfold watch Ek Deewane Ki Deewaniyat, now streaming exclusively on ZEE5.

Priyamvada Kant's Striking Transformation in Gharwali Pedwali

&TV's Gharwali Pedwali continues to entertain audiences with its unique mix of laughter, supernatural elements, and emotional depth. Adding charm and comic chaos to the show is the talented Priyamvada Kant, who plays Latika traditional, Humorous, and emotional spirit bride who is been waiting for years for her groom. In real life, Priyamvada is known for her chic, fashion-forward style and vibrant personality, but on screen, she steps into a completely contrasting avatar.

Sharing her experience, Priyamvada Kant says, "Playing Latika has been one of the most challenging yet rewarding experiences of my career. Off-screen, I am very modern, love experimenting with fashion, and have a bold, lively energy. But Latika is the exact opposite, she is traditional, simple, and carries a quirky edge that makes her truly endearing. She belongs to a different time and mindset, which means everything about her from the way she dresses and talks to the way she reacts to situations had to feel authentic to that era. What makes her fascinating is that despite being old-fashioned, Latika is not dull or meek. she has her own charm, innocence, and a distinct comic flair that comes from her old-school beliefs clashing with today's world. To portray that convincingly, I had to understand her emotional depth her unfulfilled love, her attachment to her wedding look, and her longing to be understood in a modern setup. It is a layered role that required me to balance her emotional vulnerability with her humorous, slightly eccentric personality."

Talking about her character and look, Priyamvada adds, "It is not easy wearing the same elaborate bridal outfit and heavy jewellery every day, especially during long shooting hours! But it helps me get into Latika's world it reminds me of her story and emotions. Another challenge was perfecting her dialect and old-school expressions, which are very different from how I normally speak. It took practice to make it sound natural. As an actor, it has been so refreshing to step into someone so different from who I am in real life. Latika's world is filled with nostalgia, emotion, and laughter, and bringing that mix alive on screen has been an absolute joy."

Watch Priyamvada Kant as Latika in Gharwali Pedwali at 10:00 pm, airing every Monday to Friday, only on &TV
